'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Don't you love these gentle dentists who put you in a chair, lay out an imposing lineup of picks, shovels, punches and what have you and then remark, "Now make yourself comfortable."

* * * *

And all the time they have their hands in your mouth and are digging away at your teeth with a fiendish drill, they tell you stories and then ask you questions and make fun of you because you can't talk.

* * * *

One of these days we are going to rise up in our wrath and slay all dentists.

* * * *

Get two dog lovers together for the first time and then sit back, close your eyes and go to sleep. When you wake up three hours later they will still be talking.

* * * *

Some men will rave more about the bright things that their dogs do than about their children. The explanation for that is, however, that children are expected by their papas to be brilliant, while a dog is said to be a dumb beast.

* * * *

But don't you ever fool yourself that a dog is dumb. In our vicinity there are two cur dogs and a large police dog . . . one of the smartest animals we have ever seen. When the two curs, still in their romping puppyhood start playing, one of them is sure to get mad and start fighting. Immediately the police dog sticks his nose in between the two, talks dog talk to them for a second and the two pups go and lie down in different spots.

* * * *

One of the curs has a love for climbing fences. Every chance she gets she's over the fence and out into the lot. The police dog immediately jumps the fence, grabs the cur by the neck and drags her back into the yard.

* * * *

When instructed to watch the cur, the police dog will follow her around the yard. And when she settles down to chaw on a bone, he sits and watches her like a hawk. And when she decides to climb the fence he grabs her with his teeth and pulls her back.

* * * *

Live around a dog and watch him or her for a while, and then prepare for a laugh when the next person tells you that dogs are dumb animals.

GOOD FUTURE SEEN AT MEET

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. —UP— Ailments of business are minor; its inherent strength is unimpaired, and its further advance is certain, executives of America's many billion dollar industries agreed today at the seventh annual conference of major industries.

The railroads, electricity, oil, the radio, steel, agriculture, rubber and merchandising all were represented dissected and defended by the nation's most prominent businessmen who jammed Mandell hall at the University of Chicago.

A thumbnail sketch of the situation in each particular line of endeavor, was expressed by leaders in each group as follows:

The railroads: Suffered from too much competition and too many laws, badly in need of widespread consolidation in the interest of efficiency.

Electricity: Battling governmental ownership, forced to go into politics, business good and getting better.

Oil: Buffeted by weaknesses within the industry, too much waste, conservation of oil resources an absolute necessity.

Steel Good

The radio: Growing with extreme rapidity, with no precedent to guide its growth, careful supervision necessary.

Steel: In excellent financial and material condition, ready to meet any challenge of changing business conditions.

Rubber: The industry is looking forward with optimism to a suc-

However there were present two notables, State Senator Frank F. Merriam, candidate for lieutenant-governor, and ex-governor Friend W. Richardson, who spoke in the place of Rolph.

Phil Jones, the toastmaster of the evening stated that he was sorry Rolph was unable to be present, as he knew it was a severe disappointment to every one, but promised that another Rolph meeting would be held in the future—possibly after the election—when everyone present was invited to attend, without any cost to them.

Much Enthusiasm

As the guests left the hotel they were handed tickets which will be their passports for the next Rolph dinner.

There was much enthusiasm manifested during the talks of the speakers of the evening. The indications are that this city will give Rolph a rousing vote at the election on November 4.

BLAST DEATH TOLL GROWS

HIGH ELEVEN WILL MEET BERKELEY

A Richmond Union High school varsity will march onto the Richmond gridiron tomorrow before what is expected to be the largest crowd to witness a high school football game on a local field.

Practically the entire Richmond Union High school Student Body of a thousand members has pledged its support of the local eleven in its annual clash with Berkeley High school tomorrow, while more than 500 students are expected to come from Berkeley to support their school squad.

Friday's battle is reckoned upon to be a classic in local football competition. It will be the opening game in the Alameda County Athletic league. It will also be Richmond Union High school's first chance to compete in a league football contest.

Besides its importance as a league game, the intense school rivalry connected with tomorrow's contest lends it added significance and glamor. Richmond and Berkeley have been close rivals for many years. Richmond lost last year's game to Berkeley, and is therefore especially anxious to make a comeback tomorrow.

Richmond Union High school will be facing the class of eastbay high school football teams tomorrow. Berkeley has swept through the present season without a loss, vanquishing many of the outstanding elevens in this district, and displayed a brand of playing that is unique in a high school eleven.

This will be the brand of opposition that the Richmond warriors will be facing tomorrow. Richmond has a difficult task ahead of it. Yet, there is still the chance that the local pigskin toters will display that sudden flare of football genius that has come to the surface several times in the local eleven during a rather unsuccessful season, and, considerably braced up by the strong support of the school they may be expected to stage a determined, fighting stand against the invading Yellowjackets tomorrow.

A strong first string will start for Richmond tomorrow. Scarsella and Ed Masek, both clever ball carriers, will start at the halfback position, while Jack Stoddard will serve his team in the quarterback locality.

This hard driving backfield will be supported by an equally strong defensive line. Brignone will start at center, while Emeric Baxter and Benny Hoeffer will see action as guards. Louis Ball and Ed Westman will have the tackling jobs, and Ray Juillerat and Gerletti will start at end.

The tentative Berkeley High school lineup for tomorrow's clash is as follows: Wallace, Bertoli, halfbacks; Kirkman, quarterback; Hector, fullback; Ball, center; Kendall, Dutton, ends; Goodrich, Durri, guards; Chase and Luther, tackles.

BEAR GRIDDERS LEAVE FOR CONTEST

BERKELEY, Oct. 22.—The University of California varsity left Berkeley tonight in full strength to meet the University of Washington at Seatle next Saturday. The Golden Bears will leave Berkeley after a shortened practice session this afternoon and will arrive in Seattle Thursday evening at 9:45 o'clock. Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price was expected to name his squad—which will include nearly 40 men—late this afternoon.

The Bears will be taking no chances with the Huskies. Both teams have dropped one conference contest, California to the powerful Cougars of Washington State and Washington to the no less powerful Oregon team, and Saturday's game will go a long way toward settling the final standing of both teams in relation to the rest of the conference.

Price had originally intended to take three complete teams to the north, but at the last minute expanded his plans to include nearly 40 gridders. This move was evidently prompted by the inability of the Bear reserves to cope with the Olympic club coupled with the extraordinary susceptibility to minor injuries apparent among the regulars and near-regulars.

While the latter part of the week will definitely tell the story, it appears fairly certain that "Hank" Schaldach, spark plug of the California attack, will be back in the harness after nearly two weeks of rest necessitated by a slight concussion of the brain incurred in the St. Mary's game.

The other men on the Bear injured list, barring possible mishaps in practice, will be ready for action against the Huskies. The three ends, Russ Avery, "Togo" Thornton and Ralph Stone, are slowly mending ankle injuries.

The unlucky outside tackle spot was hit by further calamity at the beginning of the week when Nick Bican was declare dineligible, but the Bears are heartened by the return of Dolph Timmerman, letterman, and Del Giorgio, promising sophomore, both of whom were injured at the outset of the season.

Ted Beckett and Captain Carl Handy, outstanding guards among the flankmen of the conference, will return to the lineup, and either Herm Eickmeyer or Frank "Butch" Medanich will work at center.

Whether Ed Kirwan will be in shape to go at quarterback remains to be seen, but Ed Griffiths will probably be available. "Rusty" Gill will be ready at fullback, and Price will have an impressive string of halfbacks ready to carry on the attack.

CONTRIBUTION TO CAMPAIGN TOLD

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 22.—Walter W. Head, nationally known banker and utility head, paid $1000 to learn through a secret poll of Nebraska politicians whether or not Senator George W. Norris could be defeated in the recent primary.

That was revealed by Victor Smith, vice persident of the Omaha National bank and for years secretary to Head, when he testified today before Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures.

Smith said the money was given to Victor Seymour, who resigned recently as head of the western Republican senate campaign committee.

Smith said the $4000 was donated by Head purely as a personal favor to Samuel B. McKelvie, former governor and Federal Farm Board member, and Governor Arthur J. Weaver, whose chances as an opponent of Norris were mentioned in the secret questionnaire. The poll showed, Smith said, that neither was adjudged able to defeat the veteran senator.

Instead, Norris was opposed in the primary campaign by George W. Norris, an obscure grocery clerk by the same name, and W. M. Stebbins, state treasurer. Grocer Norris was ruled off the ballot as a belated filer and Stebbins was defeated by Norris.

Senator Norris complained at the time that outside interests and "the power trust" were behind his opposition, the Nye investigation, now in its third hearing, resulting.

In revealing the $4000 contribution by Banker Head, Smith denied there was any known connection between that money and a $500 bond given Grocer Norris to finance his filing.

FIRE LOSS IN STATE SAID LOW

California's forests and fields have enjoyed a marked respite from fire damage this year, according to comparative figures of State Forester M. B. Pratt and presented in a report to Fred G. Stevenot, director of the state department of natural resources.

The area of timber, brush, grass, and grain burned up to September 17 this year was 154,453.14 acres, as compared with a total of 468,085.40 acres up to October 1 last year. The total damage for the entire state, outside of national forests, to September 17 was $283,146. Last year the damage to October 1 was $590,706.

In the national forests up to the end of September this year 31,800 acres had been burned. Last year in the same period 98,000 acres had been swept by flames.

The heaviest damage this year was to improvements on farms swept by fire and totalled $136,522, but the total for the 1929 period reached $248,868. Range damage is estimated at $67,048 this year as compared with $206,882 last year. The timber area burned last year amounted to 24,226.52 acres, while the total this year has been only 14,037.36 acres, while the total has been only 14,087.36 acres.

Increased effectiveness of the fire-fighting organization, good weather conditions, and the results of the educational program among motorists and the people of the state generally are some of the reasons for the reduction in fire loss, according to a statement by E. B. DeGolia, member of the stop forest fires committee and a director of the California State Automobile association.

The large increase in the fire protection force of California this year is mainly due to additional patrolmen coming under state supervision by the cooperation of San Diego, San Bernardino, and San Luis Obispo counties, State Forester Pratt explained. In accordance with an agreement with these counties, the county fire-fighting funds are devoted to prevention work, while the state bears the cost of suppressing the fires.

During the peak of the fire season, usually regarded as from August 15 to September 15, a total of 178 men were at work guarding the state's forests and fields from destruction.

In the sixth Hollywood increased its margin to 4 to 1. Dud Lee walked and Brannan sacrifice him over. Baecht struck Barbee out on a wild pitch and the latter ran toward first, Lee taking third on the play. However, Catcher Hannah recovered the wild pitch in time to get Barbee at first. While the ball was on its way to first, Lee rounded third at full speed and slid across the plate.

Cut Lead

Los Angeles cut the Stars' lead to 4 to 3 in the last of the same inning when Schulmerich hit a home run over the left field fence and Jacobs hit a double, scoring a few minutes later when Statz also doubled.

The last half of the seventh saw Jim Turner driven from the mound after Haney and Harper had singled, Turner was relieved by Lefty Johns, who retired Moore and Schulmerich. But Jacobs hit a home run over the left field fence, incidentally his second circuit drive and fourth consecutive blow of the game. He scored Haney and Harper ahead. Not to be outdone, Statz connected for a home run, putting the Angels into the lead, 7 to 4.

But the Angel lead was short lived. Hollywood pounded in four runs in the first half of the eighth to take an 8 to 7 lead and drive big Ed Baecht to the showers.

Stars Win

Gazella singled and was forced out by Lee. Brannan walked. Barbee scored him later with a single. Then Carlyle hit a drive that landed on top of the center field fence, bounded into the air and dropped to hit the wall again, then dropped inside the field for a triple. Brannan and Barbee scored on the clout. Wilbur Peters went in to pitch for the Angels. Jacobs made a great play to retire Heath and then Bassler singled across second, scoring Carlyle. Hill flied out.

The Angels tide it in the ninth, 8-all, when Johnny Moore hit the seventh home run of the game. Wetzel went in to pitch for the Stars.

Hollywood came right back in the tenth with the winning run. Barbee doubled to center, off Delaney, who had taken up the mound work for the Angels in the ninth. Carlyle tried to bunt, but popped out. Heath walked. Bassler forced Heath at second, Barbee taking third. Then Jess Hill sent a double down the left field line, scoring Barbee. Bassler went to third. Wetzel was thrown out to retire the side.

Trojan Card Game Sell Out, Odds Lowered

PALO ALTO, Oct. 22.—UP—Tickets for the football game between Stanford and University of Southern California here next Saturday were sold out tonight and already there were rumors of resales netting several dollars profit on each cardboard.

At the same time odds favoring U. S. C. were dropping and there was a possibility they would vanish completely at game time.

The Cardinals went through their last scrimmage behind locked gates tonight. After a brief signal drill tomorrow they will go to a country club until game time.

Ninety thousand persons who will watch the game were most interested today in Coach "Pop" Warner's announcement that he had reduced the number of plays that will be used against the Trojans. At the start of the season he gave his team 50 plays from two formations. The players became so absorbed in new plays that they forgot the effective 'fake reverses.' Consequently Warner has instructed them to forget about 20 plays that have not yet clicked perfectly.

Routes Told To Navy Day Celebration

Motor routes leading to Vallejo and the Mare Island Navy yard next Monday, October 27, when Navy Day will be observed by open house at the big naval shipbuilding plant, promise to be filled with a great throng of visitors attracted by the event. Preparations to make the occasion a memorable one are being perfected under the direction of Rear Admiral George W. Laws, commandant, and Captain T. A. Kearney, captain of the yard.

The navy yard is conveniently reached by paved highways converging from all parts of the state, it is pointed out by the touring bureau of the California State Automobile association. Among the principal routes are the highway via Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond and the Carquinez bridge, for east bay motorists; via Napa or the Sears Point toll road from the north bay region; and the main highway via Davis, Dixon, and Napa Junction from Sacramento valley points.

Additional interest is given to the event by the recent announcement that Mare Island has been awarded the construction of one of the series of light cruisers, to be of 10,000 tons and costing about $9,000,000. The cruiser Chicago, similar in tonnage and intended for use as a flagship, was launched at Mare Island last April and is now being given finishing touches at the yard.

Visitors to Mare Island next Monday will be shown the great industrial plant and naval organization in actual operation. The yard has an abundance of historical background dating back to Civil War days. A total of seventy-nine vessels, from monitors to the modern battleship, have been launched from its ways.

One of the most spectacular plays of the day was by Miss Hicks when she duplicated Harrison Johnston's famous shot from the beach to the 18th green.

RALLY HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL

The students of Richmond Union High school yesterday pledged their support to the Blue and Red gridders in their battle with Berkeley High school on Friday.

School spirit reached its height during the pep rally held yesterday morning in the high school auditorium.

Coaches Frank Ribel and Phil Hempler both addressed the rally on the prospects of Richmond in the coming gridiron classic, and both stated that the local eleven needed the whole-hearted support of the student body. Neither Ribbel nor Hempler were exceptionally confident of a Richmond victory, but both pointed out that Richmond will be able to give the famous Berkeley team a determined and perhaps winning battle.

Pep talks were also given by several members of the Richmond High school team, including Merle Baskett, David Lilly, Benny Hoeffer, Raymond Juillerat, and Woodrow Snodgrass. The coaches and players were introduced to the assembly by Jack Stoddard chairman of the rally committee.

Jack Carr, student worker, described to the assembly the seating arrangement in the local bleachers during Friday's game, and stated that authorities of the Berkeley High school have indicated that they expect approximately five or six hundred Berkeleyans to make the trip to Richmond to support their school team.

A snappy session of yells and school songs concluded the rally. The yells and singing were led by Harman Jatta, head yell leader at the high school, and several other students who were trying out for the position of assistant yell leader. William Young and Jack McLean were chosen by the commissioners of the student body.

The high school band played during the rally under the direction of George Morris.

Harry Transue, president of the student body, presided over the rally.

Another rally will again be held by the students of Richmond Union High school this morning in support of the Richmond Union High school grid warriors.

MASS MEETING WILL BE HELD IN RICHMOND

Richmond will hold a large meeting of chamber of commerce heads, traffic men and business executives from various parts of Contra Costa county and the bay region, with the object of setting forth Richmond's advantages as a shipping point, according to decision reached yesterday by the directors of the chamber of commerce.

Originating with the traffic committee, headed by W. W. Scott, the plan was approved by the directors at their luncheon yesterday, and P. M. Sanford, president, will call such a meeting at an early date.

An outstanding industrial leader of the bay region is to be selected as chairman and the speaking program will include the names of well known traffic men qualified to set forth the story of the strategis position occupied by the city in the shipping world.

Frank M. Chandler, the citys representative at the recent rate hearing before the State Railroad Commission, reported to the directors that there appeared to be a desire on the part of at least one rail carrier to raise the entire rate structure of California, a move which was being vigorously contested by many chambers of commerce. He appeared to protect Richmond's position as regards terminal rates.

E. B. Bull, chairman of the industrial committee, secured the permission of the directors to increase his committee by adding five or six outstanding industrial men of Richmond for a discussion of future problems along this line.

The directors authorized the publication of a new 16-page industrial booklet to be printed in colors and to summarize the entire story of Richmond's advantages to industry and shipping.

BUDDY ROGERS IN FILM HIT AT FOX

Inspired by a pretty and famous woman athlete, produced by America's great stage generals, filled with catchy songs, pepped with screaming comedy, reveling in heart-tingling romance, "Follow Thru" swept Broadway off its feet, and, for two years, kept Schwab and Mandel, its producers, hosts to an entertainment-hungry world.

But now "Follow Thru" is on the screen, and, to all the charms of the sensational stage production, Paramount has added those two delightful screen favorites, Charles Rogers and Nancy Carroll.

"Follow Thru" is a musical slice of country club life, rippling with comedy situations, throbbing with a tingling love story, and its all in Technicolor. Patrons who see it at the Fox-California Theater, starting today for two days, will see even more of a show than did the thousands who paid five and six dollars a seat to see it in New York.

Laurence Schwab, himself, journeyed to Hollywood to co-direct it, and he took with him two of his stage highlights, Zelma O'Neal and Jack Haley the comedy novel-duet that kept the laughs coming on Broadway. Then two juvenile joy distributors from the stage production followed Schwab to the west coast and added their bits of convulsing foolishness to "Follow Thru." They are Margaret Lee and Don Tomkins. And Eugene Pallette brings his Sergt. Heath characterization to the golf links and proves a panic as a new-rich country club member.

"Follow Thru" has for a background a swanky country club where red-haired, blue-eyed Nancy Carroll, runner-up in the women's championship matches, loses her heart to Charles Rogers, wins the envy of Thelma Todd, champion woman golfer, and makes two holes in one by copping the championship and Rogers in one and the same match. The youthful, exuberant theme runs through a series of misunderstandings, serious and otherwise. Eugene Pallette and Jack Haley get mixed up with a lot of lingerie in the women's locker rooms. Zelma O'Neal resorts to a mysterious love perfume to capture and tie Jack Haley. And the big climax comes in a thrilling champion golf match before a gallery of the most beautiful girls in Hollywood.

"Button Up Your Overcoat," one of the greatest comedy songs of recent years; "A Peach of a Pair" a romantic song with catchy lyrics, "It Must Be You" are only a few of the hummable harmony hits that "Follow Thru" introduces.

60,000 SLAIN BY CHINESE BANDITS

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 22.—UP—Reports of the massacre of 60,000 Chinese by Communist troops in the bandit-communist infested province of Kiangsi reached Shanghai today.

The reports said the massacre occurred Oct. 6, when the 4th and 5th Red armies captured the city of Kian-Fu, Kiangsi province, south central China.

Bodies were reported to have been piled high in the streets. The waters of the Kan river, on which Kian-Fu is situated, were said to have been stained red with the blood of thousands of victims.

Expedition Seen

The provincial government authorities at Hankow, central China announced a loan of $3,000,000 Chinese currency (about $900 000 U. S currency at the present rate of exchange), would be floated to finance an expedition against the communists said to have perpetrated the slaughter.

The expedition will start from Hankow, north of Kian-Fu, on the Yangtze river, on Nov. 1, the authorities announced, in a determined effort to locate and exterminate the bandit-communist forces who have terrorized Kiangsi province and vicinity for months.

The massacre occurred in the province where bandits and communists recently have been making high ransom demands for the release of foreigners they have captured. The latest demand, and the highest yet received, is for $10,000,000 silver ($2,930,000 in U. S money). This sum is being demanded by bandits for the release of four nuns and six priests kidnaped in Kiangsi province, missionary headquarters were advised today.

Bert Nelson, of Minneapolis, another foreigner being held for ransom, the bandits demanding $300,000 silver in his case. Nationalist troops on a rescue expedition were reported nearing the bandit headquarters, to negotiate with them or effect his forceful release. Nelson is a member of the United Lutheran mission.

Roving armies of Chinese communists and bandits have become increasingly bold in recent weeks and form a major problem facing the national government at Nanking.

They rove the western province looting as they go and fleeting when government troops seek to suppress them. The mountainous country in Kiangsi province, south of the Yangtze, makes apprehension of the bandits difficult if not impossible.

Rail Heads In North Tells Of Developments

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 22.—UP—Charles E. Denney, president of the Erie railroad, said that when his company spent approximately $125,000,000 during the past few years in betterment of facilities for handling fast freight that it had the Pacific coast and Northwest in mind.

Denney, in company with Carl Howe, vice president of the line, arrived here today to give fruit and agriculture tonnage prospects in the Pacific Northwest their personal attention.

A large percentage of Pacific coast products consumed in eastern markets and much sent to European markets is handled by the Erie out of Chicago in the company's Chicago-New York Trunk line, Denney said.

The two officials became so interested in the Medford orchard country on their way north that they remained an extra day in the Rogue River country.

Denney and How spent the day in conference with shippers, growers and transportation men. They will visit the Hood River and Yakima apple districts en route to eastern headquarters.

DEATH TOLL IN MINE BLAST GROWS

tombed several hundred miners, injured scores and killed upwards of 200 men.

The known dead stood at 231, including those who died after being brought up alive from the black inferno 1,400 feet beneath the surface.

It was believed 61 men still were trapped. In nearby hospitals 104 men lay fighting for life.

Toll Grows

An official of the Prussian government informed the United Press that the total of dead was increasing as the rescue work continued, but that it was believed the total would not exceed 238.

The possibility of rescuing some of the trapped men alive seemed remote.

Cause of the explosion remained undetermined. A store of dynamite was at first believed to have exploded, but the dynamite was found intact, despite the detonation which rocked the shaft.

A second theory that a dynamite cartridge had struck an area of 'fire damp,' or ignited coal dust was regarded as not plausible, since many of the bodies recovered had been burned without external injuries.

Woman Killed

Criticism was voiced because only one exit was provided from some of the deepest pits in which victims were trapped.

Harrowing scenes were witnessed in the vicinity of the disaster. One rescued miner was found wandering through the streees insane. The father and three sons in a single family were killed.

A local inn-keeper's wife in a house opposite the entrance to the mine had given birth to a child shortly before the explosion. She was killed when struck by falling beams. The ground shook as in an earthquake, damaging scores of houses. At least 11 of the dead were killed above ground, in falling buildings near the shattered pit.

LIONS TO AID IN GIVING WORK

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—UP—Luncheon clubs started the wheels of business whirling again in Muskegon, Mich., so simply and so easily last week that 2300 Lion clubs inaugurated the same scheme on a national scale tonight.

Headquarters of the organization here announced it was hoped to put between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 in circulation before the end of the week, enough money to tip the scales of the present business depression the other way.

In Muskegon the clubmen promised simply to spend $100 each in one week and to get five of their friends to do likewise. The spending campaign resulted in $1,000,000 extra business for merchants there, which in turn caused orders for several times that much to be placed with factories over the land.

In adopting the scheme for use through the nation, International Lions secretary, Melvin Jones, explained to the United Press that the 85,000 members of the club made similar promises.

The governors of Arkansas, Indiana, Kentucky, New Jersey, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Texas, New Mexico and Ohio, for instance, issued official proclamations urging citizens to observe "confidence in business week" by spending all the money they could afford on the things they really needed. Governors of 25 more states wrote commendatory letters.

Twenty-three railroad presidents assured the Lions that they would cooperate by asking their employes to join the spending campaign.

Reports from cities active in the "buy now" week already were streaming into the Lions headquarters. In Detroit the mayor opened the week with a proclamation. Every minister in Little Rock, Ark., asked his parishoners to join the spending movement.

Some 2300 big businessmen met in Los Angeles to promise the cooperation of the Pacific Coast Chambers of commerce reported extraordinary activity in Toronto, Fort Worth and Savannah, Ga.

MONKEY GLAND OPERATIONS LAUDED

By HENRY T. RUSSELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1930 by United Press)

GRIMALDI, Italy, Oct. 22.—UP—Seven years ago a man 62 years of age was grafted with monkey glands by Dr. Serge Voronoff, discoverer of rejuvenation through gland operations.

The man today has two little girls who, Dr. Voronoff himself declares, "are absolutely normal in every way—living refutations of assertions that the offspring of rejuvenated people are almost bound to have Simian, or monkeylike characteristics."

This fear has been one of the drawbacks of the spread of the gland operation in practice among thinking men and women, the surgeon said in an interview with the United Press.

"There are quite a number of persons," Dr. Voronoff told me at his estate here, "who insist that the children of people grafted with monkey glands will think and act like monkeys. I have always said that this was a fallacy, but the assertion was difficult to prove because not enough time had elapsed for children to be born to some of my patients.

"But this is no longer the case. I know personally three such children, and I am sure there are many others. After all, if you graft a tangerine tree on a lemon tree, the lemons won't become transformed into tangerines.

"You doubt that?' the surgeon said with a smile. The correspondent said he had heard of grapefruit and other tree surgery products.

"Well, look and see for yourself," said Voronoff. He turned to his brother, Alexander and added, "take him through the garden and show this skeptic how the gardener does with trees just what we have done with monkeys and men."

In the garden, there were lemon trees loaded with large, ripe fruit.

"Look," my guide instructed. "See the tangerines?" On the same tree tangerines were growing. Some were tangerine trees, on which lemons grew. "Those have changed not a bit because they grow of those trees."

ROLPH PAID HONOR AT BANQUET

call to duty in public service. He has been mayor of San Francisco for the past 20 years, and has made a wonderful record. When he first became mayor, San Francisco was practically an ash pile, and see today what wonderful strides that city has made under his leadership.

"Rolph is endowed with those qualities that go to make an ideal governor. I am appealing to you to not only support the head of the state Republican ticket, but the entire ticket as well. There is more to this election that the mere election of Rolph as governor, for California is in a peculiar position, so far as the states of the nation are concerned. Congress has given California the greatest tariff protection on its products that it has ever enjoyed.

"I want to see Herbert Hoover re-elected as president in 1932, and the election of a complete Republican ticket will be the greatest congratulatory message that can be sent him."

Bond Support

Merriam also urged those present to support the $20,000,000 bond issue for the veterans and also for the $10,000.00 for the San Francisco harbor. Both of these measures will appear on the November ballot. Neither will cost the people of the state one penny, as the loans made to veterans will be re-paid, and the San Francisco harbor bonds will be liquidated out of the revenues of that harbor.

The next speaker was ex-governor Friend W. Richardson. The speaker stated that during the primary he was a supporter of Fitts but as the people of the state decided in favor of Rolph, he was for him. "There is now a united party in the state," said Richardson," "and it is your duty to support the entire ticket. I have known Rolph for over 20 years, and I do not believe any candidate could have brought more harmony to the party than the candidacy of Rolph. Sectionalism is wiped out, there is no north or south. It was really the vote Rolph received in Los Angeles that nominated him. Now you have Rolph for governor from San Francisco, and Merriam for lieutenant governor from the south. Both sections are represented, and the candidates are very acceptable to the people of the state as a whole."

Bond Issues

Richardson also dwelt on the proposed bond issues, spoke of taxation problems the state is facing, and urged that every support be given the candidates.

Short remarks were also made by J. F. Brooks, general manager of the Standard Oil company, R. B. Borland, county campaign manager for Rolph, Louis E. Davis of El Cerrito, State Senator E. S. Hurley of Oakland, and City Attorney T. M. Carlson.

During the evening there were instrumental selections by Denny Shaw's orchestra and songs by Frankie Burns, and Ione Robinson.

INDUSTRY OF U.S. LAUDED AT MEET

cessful and prosperous year in 1931.

Merchandising: Merchants have small inventories, few credit losses, sell goods at lower prices, in general are in prosperous condition.

Education Saying

Robert Maynard Hutchins, youthful president of the university, acted as host to the executives and incidentally told them that education, itself a major industry, is paying excellent dividends. Concerning the business depression in connection with university life, Hutchins said:

"It is now possible, with lowering commodity prices, for professors to live on their salaries. The by-products of the education industry, such as football, are at peak demand. The staple products education and character, we expect to be at a higher demand after Thanksgiving."

The audience which Hutchins thus put in high good humor included T. W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan and company; W. B. Storey, president of the Santa Fe railroad; Charles M. Schwab of the Bethlehem Steel company; Adolph Zukor, representing the motion Picture industry; Adolph Ochs of the New York Times; Samuel Insull, utilities magnate; A. E. Erskine of the Studebaker corporation; Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck and company; E. J. Taber, president of the National Grange, and M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company.

Radio Praised

The other conferees were similarly outstanding in transportation, communication, banking, manufacturing, education, agriculture mining and merchandising.

Radio is the fastes growing industry in all history said M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company.

"Sponsored programs," he said, "have saved broadcasting from extinction. The broadcasting stations are as envious of their audiences as publishers are of their circulation. This guarantees that programs will be kept at the highest level of quality."

Radio's influence is international, he continued, so much so that it has gone far to break down political, religious and sectional intolerance.

Farmer Hard Hit

Faber pictured the plight of agriculture as not absolutely hopeless, even though he said the farmer had been particularly hard hit by "10 years of abnormal conditions" after the war, only to be dealt almost a knockout blow this year by low prices and drought.

He said the crop lass this year would amount to a billion dollars. On the cheerful side of the ledger he said that the loss, however, would tend to equalize supply with demand.

The conference ended tonight with a banquet wherein Hutchins introduced 40 of the industrial, financial and business chiefs to a National radio audience.

Junior Cross Country Hop Record Broken

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—When 16-year-old Robert Buck, New Jersey prep schoolboy, set down his fast Pitcairn biplane on a Newark, N. J., airport at 1:43 o'clock, E. S. T., the afternoon of October 18, he broke the junion transcontinental flying record by 3 hours and 47 minutes.

This announcement was made here today by officials of the aviation division, Richfield Oil company, whose Richfield gasoline and Richlube lubricants were used by the boy flier on his record - setting cross - country flights. Advices to Richfield from aeronautical officials in the east gave young Buck's elapsed flying time as 23 hours and 47 minutes from Los Angeles to Newark.

The new west-east record augments that recently made by Buck between Newark and Los Angeles, using the same plane and the same Richfield-Richlube fuel and oil combination. That record was established in the elapsed time of 28 hours and 33 minutes which broke the former juvenile record by an hour and 12 minutes.

Both previous records just lowered by Buck were those made by Eddie Schneider, another eastern lad and a schoolmate of Buck's, according to Richfield officials. Schneider's marks had previously beaten those set up by the late Frank Goldsborough, who was a pal of both Schneider and Buck.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

"Only Lazy Women Marry"

MARY GARDEN, returning from Europe the other day, was asked the perennial question—

"When are you going to get married?"

Of course, as our office cat points out, the question may be a bit embarrassing

For any woman who gets to be Mary's age—

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Still, even the charming prima donna's many feminine admirers must regret

That the inquiry annoyed and irritated her to the point of replying

With a general assertion so unjust—and so absurd.

"Only lazy women marry," Mary is quoted as saying;

"Women marry because they don't want to work.

"There is nothing else for them to do.

"They are lazy and unambitious.

"They need someone to support them.

"A woman as busy as I am has no time

"To think about a husband or a household of children."

Oh, Mary, Mary, quite contrary, how could you!

Doesn't it by any chance occur to Miss Garden

That "a husband, a household and children"

Require something besides thought?

from the woman responsible for all three—

Exact, indeed, from the conscientious wife and mother in a servantless home.

Hours of labor considerably longer and harder than a prima donna's?

"Only lazy women marry," forsooth!

Let the home woman laugh that off

Between buying, preparing and serving three meals a day,

Getting the children up and ready for school,

Washing dishes, making beds, sweeping, dusting, scrubbing,

Mending stockings, sewing on buttons,

Taking care of the baby, helping the older children with their home work,

Adjudicating quarrels, listening sympathetically to confidences,

Cheering up her husband, after a day when everything has gone wrong at the office,

Planning, self-denying, in the effort to keep out of debt

And to put aside something for college bills by-and-by—

If the woman without a maid and with one or more small children

Married because she didn't want to work,

She never was worse fooled in her life.

Or, take another type of married woman, the fifty-fifty wife,

Who has no children, perhaps, but who is running two jobs at once,

A job downtown, in shop or office or factory,

And a job at home as manager and worker-in-chief.

Is she "lazy and unambitious?"

Did she "need some one to support" her?

Is that why she married—or is it because

She chose with open eyes to be a two-job wife

Because she loved a man, because she was so much the reverse of idle and unambitious

That she wanted to merge her income with his,

So that they might go farther and faster than if he alone were earning?

If there's one thing which makes us weary and disgusted

It's these blanket indictments of the American wife as an idle parasite.

Sometimes, of course, she is just that—

A married gold-digger, who works neither in her home nor out of it—

But this unfortunate type seems to us only the exception

Who proves the rule that most married women

Are truly working partners in the matrimonial firm—

Not, shirks nor spendthrifts nor quitters—

That these women [illegible] at least as much as [illegible] women workers,

And sometimes a [illegible] more!

Few spinster business [illegible] professional women (or prima donnas) have a job so exhausting

As that of the two-job wife,

Or the young wife and mother in extremely moderate circumstances,

Whose every waking moment is cumbered with the petty details of housework

And the physical, mental and moral demands of her babies.

Of such as these two typical modern American married women was it written:

"Woman's work is never done"—

And surely "of such is the kingdom of heaven!"

THE LOST ROAD

There was a road I used to take,
When I was but a dreaming boy,
Beneath a hill, beside a lake,
Unto a place of utter joy.

But what there was within that place—
What secret strength, what golden bough,
What hope fulfilled, what magic grace—
Somehow I can't remember now.

There is a barrier between;
And now my eyes, it seems, are blind
To miracles in boyhood seen,
And the old road I cannot find.

AUTUMNAL IDYLL

A lake whereon the golden leaves are drifting,
Cool winds that paint the autumn sky with blue,
The rippling purr of oars above the water,
A small, gay-painted rowboat, Love and You!

Your fingers dipping for a bright red leaf,
A sky that rains bright sunbeams from above—
All this shall be our fairy land of dreams
As we go rowing through the fall with Love!

MORE POWER TO HER

Now it's the fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar who admits that last winter's trained evening gowns and ankle-length daytime dresses were not a success and are "far less strongly represented" this season.

About Shoes

OF COURSE, no one likes squeaky shoes but the squeak can easily be avoided. Just rub a little oil thoroughly into the soles, then place the shoes overnight in cold, salted water, using barely sufficient to cover the soles. If the shoes are black, stand them right in a dish of castor or linseed oil overnight, being careful to use only enough oil to barely cover the soles.

When the lining in your shoe becomes torn trim off the ragged edge and cover the torn portion with a piece of adhesive tape; warm the spot slightly and press the tape firmly in place. If you dust powder over the exposed surface of the tape you will avoid the annoying stickiness.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

In these days, when a bar of unsweetened chocolate sufficient for numerous cakes and cookies and candies can be bought at any grocery store for 20 cents, it is hard to realize that not so long ago chocolate was an expensive luxury.

KAREN HOLLIS

Mexico can claim credit for first cultivating chocolate, but there the secret of its manufacture was jealously guarded, as was later in [illegible], where it was introduced by Cortez. [illegible] process [illegible] into France and Germany [illegible] production was begun on a fair scale. Ever since that time the consumption of chocolate in those countries has been enormous. Hot chocolate as a breakfast beverage is much more common there than it is in America.

It was not until the Boston Tea Party brought the serving of tea in disfavor that Americans began to buy great quantities of chocolate. Once adopted it became overwhelmingly popular, and even after tea supplanted chocolate as a drink, to a great extent, the flavor had made such an impression that people still used great quantities of chocolate in cooking.

Any ice cream manufacturer or dealer in bakery goods will tell you that the demand for chocolate products is far greater than that for others. And of all the chocolate products, one that is a consistent sales leader year after year is a chocolate nut cooky that is so crisp and rich that it is more like candy than cake. In bakeries these retail for as much as 50 cents a dozen, but they can be made at home for much less than that. And they require less than an hour for mixing and baking. This is a recipe that can be followed by the most inexperienced cook with assurance of success.

CHOCOLATE BROWNIES

1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1-3 cup shortening
¾ cup flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup nut meats, broken

Put the chocolate and butter in a saucepan over boiling water to melt. While this is heating, beat the eggs and stir in the sugar, beating well. Add the chocolate mixture and continue beating briskly. Sift the flour once before measuring, then sift it again with the salt and baking powder. Beat the flour into the chocolate and egg mixture a little at a time. When the batter is thoroughly blended add the vanilla and nuts. Pour into a shallow baking pan, spreading the batter so that it is quite thin. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty to thirty-five minutes.

Modernizing the Home

When One Prefers a Patterned Carpet

By Alma Zaiss

HERE A WOVEN WOOL CARPET IN RATHER BOLD DESIGN IS EFFECTIVE WITH THE EARLY AMERICAN FURNISHINGS.

Dear Miss Zaiss:

Would you please help me with my living room for which I need a new rug and curtains which I do not seem to know how to decide on? For one thing, I am not fond of plain rugs. I mean I think they are pretty, but too hard to keep looking spick and span. I have thought some of getting American Orientals, but would like you to advise me.

Our furniture is mostly colonial; that is, the little pieces are. We have a sofa covered in a small mixed material in reddish brown and blue or bluish green; an easy chair upholstered in blue-green rep and one figured wing chair; also a little butterfly table, a Governor Winthrop desk and tall comb-back Windsor chair and a couple of end tables. I am inclosing a drawing of the room so you can see how to place them.

I will need new drapes for which please give me suggestions, but the rug is what worries me most, as it is a long room and it costs something to cover it, and so when I spend that much money I think I ought to be sure to get what is right. Thank you for helping me, if you will.

Mrs.) F. P. J.

Points to Remember When Buying Figured Rugs

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

IT is always pleasing to find in the letters submitting problems a definite thought or need so clearly expressed by the writer that it can be lifted bodily from the letter and made the mainstay of the day's discussion. Mrs. J. has given us such a line at the close of her letter where she says: "It costs something to cover this long room, and so when I spend that much money I think I ought to be sure to get what is right." That is a point well made, not only for herself but for everyone who has or expects to have a home.

And then the letter gives us something else to think about. It makes us wonder whether, in so often recommending plain rugs (usually our own choice, and the easiest foundation upon which to build a harmonious scheme for those who are not trained in decoration), we are not denying to many readers who prefer them the pleasure of a patterned or a semi-plain floor. When well chosen for the type of the room and its other furnishings, figured carpets can be very effective and in good taste, and it cannot be denied that the broken surface is easier to keep "spick-and-span" in the sense that most homemakers interpret the term.

There are those whose eyes are not offended by the presence of footprints upon a plain carpet—persons who see beauty instead of disfigurement in the soft spotting which, on a deep pile carpet, makes lights and shadows almost comparable to a two-tone design. (See page 26 of the new booklet.) But perhaps there are many more housekeepers to whom these foot tracks seem untidy—a blot upon the otherwise immaculate perfection of the room. For this group, then, it is sheer cruelty to prescribe a plain rug!

Among the very excellent substitutes for plain carpets are the heather mixtures, which come in both velvet, chenille and rough wool weaves. Strie (striped) effects are also obtainable in velvet and chenille; and then there are other slightly mottled surfaces which, when seen on the floor, give the feeling of plainness, yet do not show dust, lint or footprints. Practically the same decorative effect can be had with these semi-plain carpets as with the plain rugs.

On the other hand, if one likes a definitely patterned carpet, there is no reason why one should not have it. Nor is it necessary to go to the Orient for it, if finances forbid. The true or the antique Oriental rug will doubtless forever remain the ideal floor covering when used in its proper size, but very beautiful and luxurious schemes may be created without it. And there, at the risk of becoming very tiresome, is one suggestion to put down in the home decoration notebook: It is always better to buy a plain or semi-plain rug or carpet, or a good rug that is patterned in its own right, than to invest in cheap Orientals or in imitations. This answers Mrs. J.'s suggestion on the subject.

As an alternative for her room, we are glad to mention the following: Among the English woven wool carpets one may find charming patterns in semi-plain effects as well as in bolder designs. One of these rugs, in a simple line-plaid motif, is illustrated on page 21 of the new booklet. A more elaborate pattern is shown in the photograph above. The Scotch woven rugs and the Seminole carpets also come in interesting conventional patterns and in plain or mottled types. These long-wearing carpets are of the less sophisticated type that makes them suitable for simple homes or schemes in the colonial or Early American manner. They are also good for many of the modern rooms. If Mrs. J. will shop about in the group and select a design in keeping with her colonial scheme, we believe that she will feel much better satisfied than she would with the purchase of an imitation Oriental. Or she may select an all-over carpet or room-size rug of the semi-plain type having a mottled or heather treatment, and use over it at some important point one good small Oriental or a hooked rug in lovely soft old colors.

The diagram shows our ideas for the arrangement of furniture in Mrs. J.'s room. She does not have enough to fill such a large space, and we have added to her collection a drop-leaf table and two side chairs for the entrance wall, also another easy chair, which may be an open armchair with upholstered back and seat. A wall-paper screen in colonial pattern placed before the door leading to the bedroom would be effective. The wall above the sofa needs a good picture, and two smaller pictures above the table would break the plainness of the entrance wall. Instead of a lamp for the table we might have a few books and a bowl of flowers, intensifying the colors in the pictures this time.

If Mrs. J. uses a definitely patterned rug, such as the one illustrated, she will probably want plain overcurtains, repeating the most important color in the carpet, and she could bind the curtains with a second color found in the design. The rug should, of course, be chosen with reference to the reddish browns and blue-greens now in the room. The photograph also shows an interesting covering for an Early American armchair...a Paisley pattern that is colorful and individual without conflicting with the design of the carpet.

We would use the wing chair in the right-hand corner of the room, opposite the figured sofa; place the blue-green chair on the other side of the window, cover the new chair in a self-figured or two-toned material, echoing in different register the color of the curtains, and have the scenic wallpaper screen in tones of blue-green on a deep buff ground. This would give fair balance of color and design in the room and, together with the suggestions regarding semi-plain and patterned carpets, may serve as a guide for other readers who do not wish to use perfectly plain rugs or Orientals. Those who are not certain as to whether they should or should not use a plain or a patterned rug in combination with their particular furnishings will find this subject rather fully covered in a special section in the booklet.

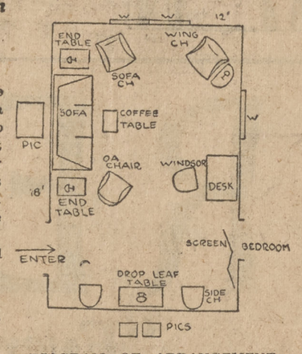

DIAGRAM OF ARRANGEMENT

Dress for Cold Weather

OVERCLOTHING is the direct cause of many a serious cold.

Most of us have learned that heavy underclothing, especially wool worn next to the skin, is debilitating and makes the body less capable of resisting colds.

People who know dress according to the temperature. Because our homes, the schools and public places in general are kept at summer temperature it is imprudent to wear heavy clothing indoors.

Children especially are made victims of overclothing, and many an illness may be traced to loss of energy and consequent fatigue due to excessive clothing.

A sweater worn under the coat will give the added warmth necessary when outdoors on very cold days and is better than heavy undergarments that are kept on indoors.

There are exceptions to this rule but these come under the direction of the physician and his instructions must guide the wearer. Generally speaking, however, you are taking less chance with colds if you wear light clothing indoors.

Pewter Picture Frames

QUITE different and much newer than the usual frame of silver for a photograph is one of pewter—an idea that is entirely new. Modern and simple in line, in a dull gloss, the frame is a trifle over seven by nine inches in measurement, is backed with velvet and arranged with a stand for use on table or dressing table. Such a frame is suitable for the living room or bedroom. Moderately priced, it is a very nice choice for a gift.

The Hallowe'en Party

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

FORTUNE TELLING and a clever witch are essential features of a jolly Hallowe'en party. This versatile lady may bob up at intervals during the evening and hold the attention of the assemblage somewhat after the fashion of a mistress of ceremonies.

She might superintend fortune telling stunts and games. Early in the evening have her enter the room, and lifting the cover of the caldron (any kettle covered with black crepe paper) suspended over an imitation fire in a corner, she stirs the contents while crooning. Naturally, the guests will gather about her, and after her cantations she serves the contents of the caldron. These are little bags containing small novelties, signifying the occupation of the future life mate. A hammer (carpenter), a pen (writer), daub of paint on an easel-shaped card, or it might be a small painting on an easel card (artist), a musical instrument (musician), a cash register (cashier), a bottle of pill candies (physician), a scissors (dressmaker), pack of cards (bridge fiend), and so on. Suitable articles may be secured in favor novelty shops.

While the guests are otherwise employed the witch prepares a new brew, then hands a package to the hostess and hobbles off to her caldron, crooning as she goes. The package contains small black cat cut-outs, or tiny black cats, such as are found in novelty shops. In either case have a ribbon attached (to wear). The hostess passes these to her guests. Each cat bears a number and the words:

"If your future you wish to know,
Hand puss to the witch real cheerio."

Each package in the caldron is numbered and the witch hands them out upon presentation of the numbered cats.

The packages will be favors that tell the fortune of the recipients: A toy automobile—a thrilling romance will be started during a motor trip; a toy boat signifies a long journey; a yellow artificial flower—will marry or amass wealth; a package of paper dolls—a large family; a ring—an early proposal. A red witch means a happy marriage and good luck. Cards bearing appropriate sentiments will add interest to this stunt.

Kitchen Window Shades

HOUSEWIVES like the new oilcloth shades for the kitchen windows, especially in winter, when the furnace and range make so much dust. They can be wiped as easily as the oilcloth on the table, and soot, dust and fly specks have no chance on these shades. The oilcloths that come for this purpose are very attractive and can be had in shades to harmonize with the color scheme of the kitchen.

JUST HOW IT'S DONE

HOW America's most eminent columnist decides what topic to write upon each day:

SECRETARY—It's time you were writing your daily dispatch, Mr. Coolidge.

CALVIN—No hurry about it at all. I don't telegraph it till night rates are effective, do I? And here it's only 4 P. M.

SECRETARY—I still think you ought to get started on your daily 200 words.

CALVIN—I'm trying to think of a topic I haven't touched on yet. They're getting scarce.

SECRETARY—You might mention that revolt in Brazil once more.

CALVIN—I've already smoothed that out so far as the United States is concerned.

SECRETARY—But maybe another 200 words would level off the rough places.

CALVIN—No, I want to write something constructive for tomorrow. Didn't I see where science had estimated the solar system was much larger than they'd ever thought before?

SECRETARY—Why, yes. I believe astronomers have now extended the universe's limits by 350,000,000,000 miles.

CALVIN—That's quite a gain for a year like this. I like to use big figures, too. When you get up in the billions, a single figure like that takes the place of two words.

SECRETARY—Shall I assemble the data for you to write an article on that?

CALVIN—Wait a minute. Maybe we can get something closer to home. What was that poignant piece I wrote up the other day?

SECRETARY—You mean the essay on community chests?

CALVIN—That was it! I'd like to write another vibrant article along that line.

SECRETARY—Well, you boosted community chests as encouraging charity. Why don't you laud hope chests for tomorrow and encourage marriage?

CALVIN—Don't know about that! This is a tough year to encourage marriage. I don't want to lose my following.

SECRETARY—I think it might be all right to mention the country's resources again. You haven't done that for ten days.

CALVIN—Not a bad idea. The country's resources have surely expanded. We have more horse chestnuts today than six months ago, for instance.

SECRETARY—Then why not touch on that topic?

CALVIN—But if I expound on our increase in horse chestnuts would that encourage anybody but the squirrels? I want to cheer up the man in the street.

SECRETARY—Then why not bolster his faith in the country?

CALVIN—Well, I've already written a piece on Have Faith in Massachusets, but I suppose I could multiply it by forty-eight.

SECRETARY—I think that's a very good idea.

CALVIN—Still, I'd like to get something a little more timely.

SECRETARY—Then I think you'd better comment on those revolts in South America. I know you've already touched on Brazil, the Argentine, Peru and Chile. But what about Ecuador? You haven't mentioned that.

CALVIN—Good idea! You just look up Ecuador in The World Almanac and find out its population, climate, principal products, leading cities, latitude, longitude and average rainfall and I think I can compose 200 words out of that.

THIS AND THAT

Does the Columbia have to fly over the Atlantic three times to get a cup—or what?

After you've been in the Caterpillar Club for six months, do you emerge as a Moth plane?

Russia is staking everything on a five-year plan. If that includes installment payments, then it's fair enough.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

BAY BARRIER GROUP HOLDS SESSION

Legal and technical discussions featured the executive committee of Salt Water Barrier association's meeting in Hotel Carquinez last night. At that time Thos. Carlson, legal consul for the association was one of the principal speakers.

C. W. Schedler of Antioch and president of the group presided. Other members present were Fred Parr, San Francisco; E. L. Dearborn; Fairfield; L. R. Mullen, Martinez; Paul Wetmore, Benicia; E. M. Downer, Richmond.

PLANS FOR BAY BARRIER ARE TOLD

A vast fresh water lake comprising all of San Pablo bay, Carquinez Straits and Suisun bay would be created by the construction of a salt water barrier at San Pablo Point, near Richmond, according to a report by the association.

The barrier at Point San Pablo would cross the entrance between San Francisco bay proper and San Pablo bay connecting Point San Pablo on the Contra Costa side with Point San Pedro on the Marin shore, preventing the incursion of salt water beyond that point and establishing America's greatest artificial reservoir of fresh water for the use of agriculture and industry.

This site, according to C. W. Schedler, president of the barrier association, is one of three which have been surveyed and pronounced feasible by eminent engineers including Walker R. Young who was delegated by the United States government to study the problem. Schedler said that no decision has been reached by this group or any other regarding the best place at which to build a salt water barrier and that his organization is committed only to the very idea that a barrier should be built somewhere in Carquinez Straits. One location which has been carefully studied is at Dillon Point, a short distance above the Carquinez highway bridge and the other is at Army Point near Martinez a short distance south of the new Southern Pacific railroad bridge.

According to the barrier association, engineers are divided as to whether there is sufficient run-off from the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers to keep the water fresh behind the barrier if it were built at Point San Pablo. Many experts it was pointed out, believe that one of the sites farther up the bay will give more satisfactory results. An argument often advanced against the San Pablo site is that battle ships and other government craft maving to and from the Mare Island Navy yard would have to pass through the locks.

Wherever built the barrier would be a low rock filled dam sufficiently high to stop the tidal flow which is now playing havoc in the lower delta but low enough to permit the passage of the greatest floods that have ever been known to come down the two rivers. Adequate locks would be provided to take care of the great shipping which now moves in and out of the delta region upon San Francisco bay with particular reference to the great increase in shipping which is expected to occur through construction of the new 26-foot channel to Stockton.

A WANT AD IN THE RECORD-HERALD WILL DO THE WORK

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS TALK BY COACH

Pop Warner's dislike of the famous Notre Dame shift is hurting the great American game of football it was intimated in a speech by Vincent McNally, coach at St. Mary's and former Notre Dame star quarterback, before the Richmond Kiwanis yesterday.

McNally declared that the shift is the only thing that gives the lighter man an even chance with the heavier man and unless something like the shift is retained the game will become a test between bone crushers. Speed and versatility will be done away with if the shift is eliminated, McNally declared.

The game will be hurt especially in the east where the men on the average are lighter than the men on the western teams, McNally declared.

As head of the program Ivan Hill, former high school coach had charge of arrangements. In addition to the talk by McNally a duet by Joe Williams and Clyde Bumgarner was enjoyed by the club. Next meeting of the group will be held at Mammy's Place with John Regello in charge of arrangemetns.

SPROUL INAUGURATED AS PRESIDENT OF CALIFORNIA

BERKELEY, Oct. 22.—UP—An address that may be regarded in future years as heralding the advent of a new era in higher education was delivered here today by Robert Gordon Sproul at his inauguration as president of the University of California.

"What we need is men outside of department of education, as well as in, who will think not in terms of their department but in terms of the university, and who will follow the scientific method in education as they do in their own subject, never thinking of advancing theories without painstaking, well-grounded study, and never thinking of putting those theories into practice without first submitting them to the acid test of controlled experimentation," Sproul said.

"That atittude of mind toward education, as toward every other phase of university life, I hope to cultivate and encourage during my presidency, if not through the older men, then through the assistant professors, who will be the university for which I shall take credit or receive blame when my course is run.

Change Outlook

"If they take me seriously when I say these things and jolt themselves out of the ruts that have been worn smooth and deep by their predecessors, we can together, in the next twenty years, the entire aspect of education in this university."

Throughout the inauguration ceremonies the fact that a man in his fortieth year should lead an institution with 25,567 students and with an annual budget of $12,772,753, was predominant and, he was cordially accepted by all.

Dean Charles Derleth, Jr., of the College of Engineering, brought "loyal greetings from the faculty" to the man who 18 years ago sat in his classes and graduated from his department.

Much In Common

"To this day I wonder whether Robert Sproul was the professor and I his student," Dean Derleth said.

Miss Ruth Waldo, vice president of Associated Students, said:

"His undergraduate days are not so far away but that we have much in common."

The new president in his address pointed out that the present system in the university is based upon lectures, which admittedly have their evils.

Sproul Talks

"They overemphasize the 'general' and tend to defer direct acquanitance with the 'particular'," Sproul said' "They engender the habit of passive receptivity on the part of the student and continued repetition on the part of the teacher; they repress initiative by creating the impression that the subject dealt with is complete and that nothing remains to be done; and worst of all, they lead, as so many things in our present system do, to the conclusion that the end of knowledge is to pass an examination and that this may best be done by repeating, verbatim if possible, the words of the professor or textbook. Under this system the student coming from high school to the university is likely to lose his zest for learning.

"The situation will be corrected when educators realize that a university is not a place for the parcelling out of ready made knowledge but for that fresh thinking which results in new knowledge; that it exists not for passing on facts, but for showing students how facts are discovered; that it is not a museum in which may be found the accumulated wisdom of the past, but a factory humming with industry and turning out the newest wisdoms of the day.

"A student must spend four years in the lecture hall parlors of the university before he is admitted to the inner sanctum where the work is being done that gives a university its real reason for existence. The interest thus aroused would make better students of all who are capable of being good students at all. It would dispose of the morons quickly and quietly and in a way convincing them as units, grade points and mechanisms never can hope to be."

More Pay

Sproul also urged proper remuneration for members of the faculty and that they be placed where they can accomplish most good.

"Men who might be good teachers if they were encouraged by the hope of future advancement, are drifting about in laboratories with a couple of test tubes in their hands making themselves useless in a most arduous and time-consuming way," he said, "and men who might be good investigators are wearing out their patience and their students in a vain effort to expound and to inspire."

The ceremonies were conducted with customary pomp. A procession of noted educators from all parts of the nation assembled at Sather gate late in the forenoon and marched to the Greek amphitheater where a crowd of 10,000 persons had assembled. Nearly every class of the university was represented.

The introductory address was made by Chester H. Rowell.

During the ceremonies honorary degrees were bestowed upon Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon; Dean Charles Derleth, Jr., Thomas Hunt Morgan, president of the Calfornia Institute of Technology, and Albert Russell Mann, dean of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Tonight President Sproul and his wife entertained 4000 guests at a reception.

Community Chest Drive Under Way

The Community Chest campaign is officially under way, and City Manager James A. McVittie has secured the first contribution for the advanced gifts section.

This was reported yesterday at the luncheon meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce. The advance gifts committee, of which A. C. Faris is chairman, will be expected to produce from 30 to 50 percent of the total budget and that this group has now started its work.

The actual campaign so far as the general public is concerned will not open until November 3, at which time the canvass will begin in the business districts and among the employes in the plants. The canvass in the residential section, of which Mrs. Earle Scofield will be chairman, will be deferred until a week later.

He explained that the campaign organization will include five principal divisions—the advance gifts, the business district, the employes in the plants, the residential and the corporations having offices outside of Richmond.

"The campaign organization is now actively functioning," he said. "With the support and cooperation which have been apparent in Richmond there is no reason why we should not make our goal. This is the first year, the year in which Richmond places itself among the Community Chest cities of the country. There are 400 such cities in America and almost without exception they have found that it is the best way to handle the financing of charitable and welfare work."

Mother Held In Scald Death

PRINCETON, W. V., Oct. 22—UP—Extra guards patroled the county jail tonight where Mrs. Minnie Stull, 30, was held for grand jury action after Mickey Stull, 8, her fatherless step-son had accused her on his death bed of tipping him into a tub of scalding water.

"Mamma did it," the boy was quoted as saying in the hospital. "She put me in a tub of hot water and then took me out. She did it four or five times."

"Do you know what would happen to you if you lied on your death bed?" Dr. J. R. Markel asked the boy at the hospital.

"Yes, sir, I'd be burned," Dr. Markel quoted Mickey as replying.

At a preliminary court hearing today Mrs. Stull denied she had scalded Mickey. She said he stumbled into the tub while she was crubbing the kitchen floor.

Local Man In Suicide Try

Dr. L. G. Cupp, resident of a hotel in this city was in the Contra Costa county hospital in Martinez suffering from the effects of poison said to have been self administered. Physicians at the hospital said he would recover.

The poison was taken by Dr. Cupp while in a Turkish bath at the corner of Ninth and Franklin street, Oakland, police say. He was discovered by an attendant and rushed to the Emergency hospital and later to Highland hospital.

Police declare he admitted taking the tablets to end it all, as he said he had had personal troubles recently that had been more than he could stand.
